Dear friends,

Christians are Easter People...we live in the vibrant hope that because Christ lives, we will live forever!

J. B. Phillips, the British New Testament Translator, says that no one understood this better than the Apostle Paul.

The resurrection of Christ was always to him (Paul) the key to the human dilemma. Christ had become man, Christ had died for man, and Christ had risen to open the door to the glories that human vocabulary has no words to describe. Paul knew that man's last enemy, death, was now defeated, and men could look forward, not to a shadowy half-life, but to a life fuller and more glorious than human imagination can conceive. No more nonsense, he urges, about what sort of "body" we shall possess when these mortal bodies perish. That we can safely leave to God, who has demonstrated the defeat of death by the raising up of Christ.

Because Christ lives, you can face today, tomorrow, and eternity with hope.

*Happy Easter,
Pastor Martin*
